

REMEDY SUGGESTED FOR CUBA'S ILLS

JUDGE GROSSCUP ADDRESSES BAPTIST CONVENTION.

Autonomy Is the Solution—Island Should Have Such a Government as That of Canada—Limitations on Religious Teachers Discussed By Leading Baptists.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court addressed the Baptist congress Wednesday night on "Our Government and the Oppressed of Other Nations." He proposed a solution of the Cuban question, as follows:

"What is the solution? Canada, in my judgment, offers the answer. That great dominion is in every practical feature of independence, as self-governed as if she acknowledged no allegiance to the British crown. In every syllable of her own political constitution, in every square mile of her territory, she is absolutely a self-governed people. The British flag is her flag only by choice, the British crown her sovereign only in name.

"Why may not Cuba start on such a career under the Spanish flag? Autonomy, not hurtful to Cuba, ought measurably to satisfy Spain. By autonomy I mean home government in reality; the autonomy of Canada and of the Australian colonies, not that which in times past have been offered Cuba. Any hand perpetuating Spanish control of Cuban domestic policies, however gloved, ought never to be accepted."

Leading lights of the Baptist faith from different parts of the country occupied the full time of the third session of the congress yesterday afternoon in spirited but friendly discussion of the question: "Should Denominational Beliefs Impose Limitations on Religious Teachers?" As in the case of whether or not baptism is a prerequisite to the Lord's supper there was a difference of opinion on this subject. At times the speakers were interrupted by remarks affirmative of the thoughts expressed and by vigorous applause on the part of the auditors.

President A. K. DuBois of Shurtleff college, Upper Alton, Ill., spoke for the freedom of teachers.

The Rev. A. K. Parker of this city followed, saying that there were limitations on teaching, but never even in the smallest degree on thinking.

The Rev. George A. Loftus of Nashville, Tenn., held strongly that denominational beliefs, or creeds, as he called them, should impose limitations upon religious teachers. He said that if the faith of a denomination limited the workings of a teacher, that teacher should not bind himself to that faith, but gracefully retire from adherence to it.

The Rev. Mr. Loftus, after meeting a number of objections, concluded with an appeal for denominational conformity to its creed as essential to the purity of teachers and preachers. Five-minute extemporaneous speeches were made on the subject. The general opinion among the extemporaneous talkers was that denominational beliefs should impose certain limitations upon religious teachers.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR ADJOURN.

General Assembly at Louisville, Ky., Adopts Many Resolutions.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 18.—The general assembly of the Knights of Labor, which has been in session in this city since the early part of last week, completed its work Wednesday and adjourned until the second Tuesday of next November, when it will convene again in Chicago. Resolutions passed were as follows: Declaring unequivocally in favor of the independence of Cuba; condemning the alleged hasty action of the deputy sheriffs in the Hazelton affair and calling on the government to take such steps as will bring the offenders to justice; denouncing the Cleveland administration for "hatching" the sale of the Union Pacific Railroad and the present administration for carrying out the plan.

The financial question occasioned no end of discussion, and finally resulted in the adoption of resolutions denouncing strongly the national banking system as advocated by the national bankers.

Children Hurt in a Panic.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 18.—A panic was caused in St. Xavier school on Sycamore street, between Fifth and Sixth streets, Wednesday by the upsetting of a stove. A cry of fire was heard and the utmost confusion resulted. Some of the frightened children jumped from the windows, while others were thrown down by the maddened efforts of the stronger ones to escape. The fire and police departments responded to calls. The fire was quickly subdued and four seriously injured pupils were sent home in patrol wagons.

ODD-FELLOWS ELECT OFFICERS.

Illinois Grand Lodge Transacts Some Important Business.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18.—At Wednesday's meeting of the Illinois Grand Lodge Independent Order of Odd Fellows the following officers were elected: Grand master, Cicero J. Lindley, Greenville; deputy grand master, M. P. Berry, Carthage; grand secretary, James R. Miller, Springfield; grand treasurer, Thomas B. Needles, Nashville.

The thirteenth annual session of the Rebekah assembly met shortly after 9 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Mary D. Stone, of Vandalia, in the chair. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Lucy Messick, Quincy; vice-president, Mrs. L. Glasier, Chicago; secretary, Mrs. Lola Rickard, Olney; treasurer, Mrs. Etta Springer, Chicago.

The special committee appointed to consider all matters relating to the proposed old folks' home reported favoring a single building to cost $20,000 and recommending a per capita tax of 10 cents, which, added to the amount on hand, will be sufficient to erect the building. The Rebekah assembly passed a resolution unanimously sustaining the majority report and pledging themselves to build and maintain the home if necessary.

SUBMITS TO AUSTRIA.

Turkish Government Makes the Best of a Bad Situation.

London, Nov. 18.—A special dispatch from Vienna says a telegram has been received there from Baron de Calceio, the Austrian ambassador at Constantinople, saying that the sultan has declared his willingness to give Austria full satisfaction for the Mersina incidents, and in regard to the disputes in connection with the Oriental railroad growing out of the transportation of Turkish troops during the recent war between Turkey and Greece.

San Opposes Territorial Idea.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—Senator Perkins declares that he is opposed to the granting of a territorial form of government to Alaska at present. When congress convenes he proposes to introduce a joint resolution providing for the appointment of a commission to prepare civil and criminal codes for the government of Alaska. The senator favors the plan of Louis Sloss, to divide Alaska into convenient districts, each to have a United States commissioner, empowered to enforce the laws.

Rich Mineral Discoveries in China.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 18.—The steamship Empress of China has arrived here from the Orient. Among her passengers was Bishop Hoffman of the Catholic church. The Chinese government, to encourage mining, has commenced the building of a railway from Hankow to Peking, passing through a richly mineralized country.

Monetary Commission at Work.

Washington, Nov. 18.—After a recess of several days the monetary commission resumed its sessions Wednesday. It is not probable that any reports will be ready when congress convenes early in December.

Relations Becoming Complicated.

Rio Janeiro, Nov. 18.—Relations between Italy and Brazil are daily becoming more complicated. The legation insists upon the degradation of the officials of Spiritu Santo, who are accused of connivance in the recent Italian outrages. The government has so far evaded a reply to this demand.

CHAIN IS UNBROKEN THE MEN ALL SAY

ILLINOIS COAL MINERS DE-TERMINED TO WIN.

Send Delegates to Streater—Every Shaft In the District Will Be Represented at the Convention—Pitiful Cases of Distress Are Being Brought to Light.

Braidwood, Ill., Nov. 19.—The miners' chain is without a weak link. The danger of a break in the ranks has passed and the officers say there can be no resumption in the northern Illinois field until an agreement has been reached that will permit them to go into the mines as a unit. They insist that all the shafts must start at the same time. State Secretary Ryan has notified the local secretaries throughout the Braidwood-Wilmington district of the proposed Streater convention, and it is believed every shaft will be represented. While the result of the Chicago conference is not wholly a surprise to the men, it is nevertheless a disappointment and has engendered a bitter feeling against the operators.

It is the general opinion that the operators have sent in a bid for a revival of the fight next May, no matter what the settlement may be at this time, and it is said the next fight will be even more bitter than this. There is no concealing the fact that the men believe an attempt has been made to buy up their leaders, and this belief is tending to solidify their ranks and making them more determined to stand out.

Operators in this district have resorted to personal abuse against the officers of the union to win their point. Secretary Ryan has been accused of being a saloonkeeper and a man who did not work in the mines. On the other hand, it is protested that Mr. Ryan's experience in the saloon business covered a period of less than three months, and he was working in the mines at the time the strike was called; that he never drank liquor in his life, and that he is now the head of the Catholic Temperance society in this city.

The publicity that has been given to cases of distress has brought to light others fully as bad. An instance is related where a father was compelled to use the boards of an old shoebox to make a coffin for a child. Still another instance is told of the corpse of a child that was kept in the house for five days because there was no money with which to bury it and its parents were too proud to tell of their troubles.

GIVE WEATHERS A SHOW.

Indiana Bank Depositors Think the President Means to Pay Every One.

English, Ind., Nov. 18.—The return of John H. Weathers, the bank president, to Leavenworth and his announcement that he will devote his fortune and any amount of time and effort to pay the creditors of the three broken banks has done much to quiet the creditors. The excitement of the last two days has died out and everybody is agreed that the bank president shall have an opportunity to bring order out of chaos. The liabilities of the three banks have been exaggerated. Mr. Weathers does not believe they will exceed $100,000. The people here now feel that if Cashier Willett would return home and pursue the course that Mr. Weathers has taken there would be no question about the bank's paying dollar for dollar. Every effort to locate the missing cashier is being made by his relatives and friends, who fear that his mind is unbalanced. An investigation shows that much of the bitterness expressed against the two bank officials has come from the men in the county who were not depositors in any of the banks and are not losers.

Since the triple bank failure in Crawford county many persons have been surprised to learn that the state does not exercise any supervision over private banks. At this time there are 210 private banks in the state and only 15 national and state banks. It is announced that the next legislature will be asked to throw some safeguard around private banks.

Policy on State Institutions.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 18.—Governor Tanner, in his address of welcome at the opening of the state conference of charities and correction in this city, asserted that no matter how big a political pull a man had he would have to toe the mark if employed at an institution or walk the plank. Secretary Wines of Illinois said something would have to be done in this state for the ever-increasing numbers of the insane. They should not be cared for in poorhouses, for that was inhuman. He called attention to the fact that no provision for epileptics has been made, and that there are 1,000 feeble-minded children begging for admission to the institution at Lincoln, and there is no room for them.

Will Continue the Organization.

New York, Nov. 18.—Decided action to continue the Citizens' union as a permanent political organization in the Greater New York was taken last night at a meeting of the committee of organization.

H. SHERRY FAILS CWING A BIG SUM

NOTED WISCONSIN PINE KING ASSIGNS.

Liabilities Figure Up To a Million Dollars—Was Interested in Many Business Enterprises in the Northern Part of the State—Assets Are Sufficient To Meet All Claims.

Oshkosh, Wis., Nov. 18.—Henry Sherry, one of the greatest lumber operators and manufacturers Wisconsin ever knew, a man who had interests in nearly every northern county, gave up the fight against business misfortunes and the shrinkage of assets and credit due to hard times and assigned all his vast properties for the benefit of his creditors. The assignee is James W. Cameron of Milwaukee, formerly associated with Mr. Sherry at Vesper, Wis.

The statement that Henry Sherry has assigned is comprehensive. It means not only the assignment of his personal estate, but that of several corporations dependent upon him. They are: Ingersoll Land and Lumber company, doing business at Eland; Mineral Lake Lumber company, Mineral Lake; Sherry Lumber company of Neenah, doing business at Aniwa; the Sutton Manufacturing company, Park Falls Paper and Pulp company and the Park Falls Lumber company, the last three doing business at Park Falls.

Mr. Sherry estimates his debts and those of associate companies as something less than $1,000,000. He estimates that his assets and those of the associate companies are sufficient to pay all the liabilities if judiciously handled. He expects to pay 100 cents on the dollar in time.

Mr. Sherry gives as among the causes which have led to this unfortunate situation the general depression in business during the last few years, and particularly large losses through the failure of C. J. L. Meyer several years ago and large losses later by the burning of timber and mills and pine lumber uninsured.

New Trial for Sutherland.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—William Sutherland of Knox, Starke county, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of Edward Fetters a year ago, is to be released for a new trial. The Supreme court held that he was not convicted according to law. The murder case was one of the most sensational that ever came up in northern Indiana. The case was reversed because the court instructed the jurors that if they found from the evidence that the human body found in the grave beneath the body of the mule was the dead body of Fetters they were justified in finding that a murder had been intentionally committed, and that the person who buried it had something of a criminal character to do with the murder. The court says that this invaded the province of the jury by telling them what inferences to draw from the facts proved.

Will Build a Fine Temple.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—Nine hundred delegates attended the meeting of the grand lodge of Indiana Odd Fellows Wednesday. Grand Master G. L. Reinhard in his annual address urged the order to build a home for the old and indigent members of the order. The report of W. H. Leedy, secretary, showed that there are now 628 lodges in the state, with a total membership of 43,186. The resources of the order in the state are announced to be $2,411,115. The building committee announced that the new temple in this city would be erected next year. The plans for a ten-story building have been selected and the contract will be let next week.

NOVAK WILL APPEAR.

Defense at Vinton, Iowa. Will Tell the Story of the Walford Fire.

Vinton, Iowa, Nov. 18.—The defense is cautiously paving the way for placing Frank A. Novak on the stand in his own behalf. It now looks as if he would be called Friday. It will be the event of the trial, and the little courtroom will be entirely too small to admit the people. The case was strengthened very materially Wednesday.

The story of the finding of an identification check, a pair of folding scissors and a four-bladed knife, together with other articles belonging to Frank A. Novak in the ruins close to the dead body of Edward Murray, was brought out. The defendant's mother testified that when she went into the store building on Monday before the fire with her daughter, who fixed up the bed on which they slept, that she found lying on the floor near the bed some clothing which Novak wore the day before, and which he tore in climbing a fence. She says when she threw the clothes on the lounge near by there was something in the pockets that rattled.

John W. Nolan, station agent of the Milwaukee road, testified that Schultz, one of the Fairfax robbers, after his capture, said there was a band of robbers in that part of the state planning a number of crimes, and that the Novak bank was one of the institutions they intended to enter. This was only a short time before the Walford fire.

GREAT DAY AT FORT WAYNE.

The Corner Stone of the $1,000,000 Courthouse Laid.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 18.—The corner stone of Allen county's $1,000,000 courthouse was laid Wednesday with much ceremony. There was a big parade of all the military and civic societies of the city, Gov. Mount having charge of the military. The ceremonies were held in the afternoon and the streets about the courthouse square were blocked.

Charles McCulloch, president of the Hamilton national bank, was president of the day. Judge John Morris, the oldest practitioner at the Allen county bar, laid the corner stone. Gov. Mount extended the congratulations of the state to Allen county and Col. R. S. Robertson followed with an address detailing the history of Allen county. William P. Breen made an address covering the history of the public buildings of the county and showing the great advancement which had been made since the old courthouse was erected in 1861. The new courthouse will cover an entire square in the heart of the city, and when completed will have cost nearly $1,000,000. The building is of Bedford stone. It will be one of the finest buildings ever erected in the west.

Scheme of Cuban Reforms.

Madrid, Nov. 18.—Owing to the indisposition of Senor Moret, minister for the colonies, the meeting of the Spanish cabinet, which had been called for the discussion of Cuban autonomy, was postponed. The principal basis of the schemes to be considered when the cabinet meets are the enjoyment of all the rights accorded by the Spanish constitution without any curtailment whatever; the identity of political and civil rights for Spaniards and Cubans, without distinction of race or color and the creation of a Cuban chamber, all the members of which are to be elected by popular vote. A Cuban senate is to be created later on.

To Find Col. Clayton's Slayer.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 18.—Governor Jones has received the following query from Luther Atkins of Pitts, Ga.: "In the year 1889 I understand there was a man who was a member of the legislature, whose name was Slaton, that was murdered in your state by some unknown parties, who are yet at large. I understand there is $5,000 reward for the murderer. If so, let me hear from you. I think I can get the party and sufficient proof for conviction." The writer evidently referred to Col. John M. Clayton, who was assassinated at Plumerville in 1889.

BONDS OF SPAIN HAVE BEEN CUT

CREW OF THE COMPETITOR SET FREE AT LAST.

Spain Shows Good Faith—Her Action Is a Wise One, as Tending to Disarm Her Enemies in the United States Senate—Satisfaction in Washington

Havana, Nov. 18.—The Competitor prisoners have been released from Cuban fortress by order of Captain General Blanco, acting in accordance with orders from Spain. The men will all sail direct for New York today on the steamship Yumuri, which is due there Nov. 21.

A report says that the order from Spain directed the return of the captured arms to the men just released, and of the schooner Competitor to its owners. Admiral Navarro was at first inclined to disobey these instructions, it is said, and contemplated resigning.

Spain Shows Good Will.

Washington, Nov. 18.—By her release of the Competitor prisoners Spain has given another substantial proof of her desire to maintain friendly relations with the United States. This act on her part on the eve of the assembling of congress will remove from the Cuban situation a dangerous phase which otherwise would have been used as a strong lever to secure interference by this government in Cuba.

NEW PLAN TO SAVE DURRANT.

Attorneys Ask That Time Be Set for Minnie Williams Murder Trial.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 18.—The attorneys of Theodore Durrant have made a new move. The condemned man now stands convicted of the murder of Blanche Lamont. No disposition has been made of the additional murder charge based on the murder of Minnie Williams.

A document filed with the district attorney gives notice that Friday next the attorneys for the accused will appear before Judge Bahrs and demand that a time be set for the trial of the Williams case in the same manner as though there had been no trial and conviction for the murder of Blanche Lamont. District Attorney Barnes takes the position that the Williams case cannot be forced to trial.

Baxter and John Roe, all of Chagrin Falls, sustained severe injuries.

Whitney, with many other party leaders, believes that the silver question will not be the dominant issue in 1900 and that the party division resulting from it in 1896 will not exist in the next national campaign. The former secretary of the navy expects the present republican administration to create new issues before 1900.

BIG INSURANCE CO.
RESULT OF FAILUREJANESVILLE MAN WAS THE ORIGINATOR.

Could Not Make Money On His Rock County Stock Farm and So He Returned To His Old Business of Writing Insurance—Plan Laid Out By Him Was Followed.

But few of the thousands who daily pass the New Insurance Building, at Milwaukee, one of the finest office buildings in the northwest, know of the humble beginnings of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, the principal occupant of the building. The failure of a stock farm in Janesville is directly responsible for the existence of the company. And thereby hangs a tale.

To start at the outset of the story, the scene is laid in New York in the early '50s. The Mutual Life Insurance company of New York was then, as is now, one of the leading companies in the United States. Under the presidency of Mr. Collins the company had the confidence and esteem of the business world. He was a retired merchant and a business man of the old school. The company had been growing moderately but safely under his regime. There was difference of opinion among the policy holders as to his real value, some claiming that a man with more enterprise and dash was needed at the head of the company. This feeling grew and crystallized until it became an united opposing force.

Collins Turned Out.

At the annual meeting of the company, the city agent, a Mr. Johnston, filled the meeting with enough proxies from policy holders to elect a board of trustees, greatly to the surprise of Collins and his friends, who had entered the meeting expecting no such sudden change. At the succeeding meeting of the board, F. S. Winston was elected to the presidency and the discomfiture of the Collins contingency was complete. This change in the company and its consequent policy has been aptly compared to the Chicago fire. Although a great loss to individuals, the change proved of unaccounted benefit to New York and the company. The new president fulfilled the claims of his friends for he brought into the company not only a great impetus but new life to the life insurance movement throughout the country.

Before the time set for the next annual meeting had rolled around the company had bought out Johnston's policy paying him, it was rumored, $30,000 and a paid-up policy of life insurance for $10,000 for his interest in the renewals. This action was probably influenced by fears on Winston's part of a repetition of the proxy-voting scheme.

Johnston Comes to Wisconsin

Shortly after, Johnston removed to Wisconsin and invested his money in a farm near Janesville, which he stocked with fancy stock. The stock and the farm ate up all profits and Johnston, recognizing the uselessness of maintaining the venture, naturally turned to his life insurance experiences. His taste of short lived power in New York inspired him with the ambition to organize a company modeled after his old favorite, the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York.

Johnston worked intermittently in the interests of his movement and after two winters of labor with the legislature succeeded in procuring a charter modeled after the charter of his old company. The name of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of the State of Wisconsin was given to the new company. The offices and headquarters were established at Janesville. Life insurance was a comparative novelty in the state at that time and it required time to get the charter requirement of $200,000 of life insurance before any policies could be issued. The company was to be purely a mutual company with no stock guaranty.

First Policies Issued.

In November, 1857, the amount was made up and the first policies issued. The company was fully organized with a board of trustees and among the officers were prominent Janesville men. The name of the president and treasurer have been forgotten in the lapse of time, but E. L. Dinock was the secretary and Johnston was the general manager. The Milwaukee agency was put in operation the following year with H. G. Wilson as the city agent. It was not long before he recognized that the natural and proper place for the headquarters of the company was at Milwaukee. Milwaukee was then easily the commercial center of the state and it seemed that the headquarters must be located in this city if the company hoped to succeed.

At about the time that Wilson was formulating plans for the removal of the headquarters trouble was brewing at Janesville. Johnston had satisfactorily demonstrated that he was well equipped with energetic methods, but his ideas were too expensive and comprehensive for the growing company. The increasing difficulty of regulating Johnston's methods and meeting the expenses of the company combined with the feeling in favor of Milwaukee, and the trustees finally consented to Wilson's advances to change the general offices.

The Janesville trustees accordingly resigned. Milwaukee trustees were elected in their places. Following these proceedings, a committee of five went to Janesville and returned with a small leather trunk containing all the belongings of the company. The trunk and its contents are still carefully preserved in the vaults of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company.

Offices in a Single Room.

The offices of the company were opened in a single room on the second floor of the Upham building, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Wisconsin streets. S. S. Daggett, then president of the Milwaukee Mutual Fire Insurance company, was elected president; C. D. Nash, treasurer, A. W. Kellogg secretary and H. G. Wilson general agent. Johnston was compensated for his labors and expenses in procuring the charter and organizing the company and his wounded feeling healed on his own terms. Following after the practice of the Mutual Life of New York, he was given a paid up policy of life insurance for $5,000, which in less than two years became a claim and was in installments.

For several months President Daggett continued his office in the fire insurance company leaving Secretary Kellogg as the sole officer of the Northwestern Mutual. He was at the time bookkeeper, correspondent and general factotum of the office, and it is remembered that he also found time to go out and solicit applications with regularity. It was not long before the business expanded to such proportions that new quarters were necessary, and a store next to the alley in the Martin Iron block, on Wisconsin street, was rented. The new quarters sufficed for little over two years and the company then bought and occupied the building at 416 Broadway, using the entire lower floor for its offices. Next came the erection of the Old Insurance building at the corner of Wisconsin street and Broadway.

When this building was found to be too small for the rapidly growing business the company purchased at a great bargain the ground occupied by the ill-starred Newhall house and built the present magnificent building on the site.

The Company's First Loss.

The first loss that was met by the company was occasioned by the wreck of an excursion train at the celebration of the opening of the Northwestern railway from Fond du Lac to Janesville and Chicago. A cow running loose on the unfenced track was the innocent cause. It was currently reported at the time that the money in the treasury was insufficient and that President Daggett gave his personal endorsement on a note to obtain the additional amount needed.

The next loss of consequence came with the loss of Lady Elgin. Prompt payment won the confidence of the public and rapid strides were made in the business.

At President Daggett's death, in the sixties, Lester Sexton, head of the prominent wholesale house of Sexton Bros. & Co., was elected to the post. His death followed a year later and John H. VanDyke was prevailed upon to abandon his extensive legal practice and accept the presidency. It was in the seventies when H. L. Palmer was elected president of the company, a position which he has since filled.

Merrill Is Chosen.

In 1870 Secretary Kellogg resigned his position to accept the vice-presidency of the Republic Life of Chicago. Assistant L. Gaylord, adjutant general of the state during the war, succeeded him as secretary. His resignation a couple of years later was followed by the election of Willard Merrill who had been the Janesville agent from an early date. On his promotion to the vice presidency, the present incumbent, John W. Skinner began his able career as secretary of the company.

The late Charles D. Nash served as treasurer from the removal to Milwaukee until he was obliged some years ago to retire from active business. Charles Ray succeeded to the place. Among the prominent men connected with the company was Emory McGintock, who served several years as an actuary. He severed his connection with the company to take an important post with the old mother company, the Mutual Life of New York.

In the year 1865 it was recognized that the original title, The Mutual Life Insurance Company of the State of Wisconsin, was unsuitable. It was regarded as both too long for convenience and too narrow in its significance to properly represent the institution. Accordingly it was changed to the present title.

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

IT IS THE FAULT OF PARENTS MANTELL APPEARS TONIGHT A SHAKE-UP AT MENDOTA

Births in the County Have Not Been Properly Registered.

A new law went into effect on July 1, in regard to registration of births, and since then, many parents have neglected to give the proper notice of births in their families. The result is the registration is not complete. The law is a most excellent one, but it will be some time before the births will be registered as well as when the doctors reported them. In regard to who shall report, the law has been changed so that it is no longer the duty of physicians to make the required report, but it now devolves entirely upon the parents. The law says it shall be the duty of the parents, and of every householder, to give notice of the birth of any child occurring in said household, within thirty days of the birth thereof, to the health commissioner. Said notice shall give the full name of the child (if it has any), color, sex, name of other issue living born of same parents, full name of father, and full name of mother previous to marriage; the hour, day of week and month of birth; the place, city and county in which child was born, the birthplace of father and of mother. The penalty for not complying with the above law is a fine of not less than ten dollars or more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than sixty days.

In regard to deaths it is necessary to get a burial permit and in this way the law is carried out to the letter. There are a few officials in the county, however, who have given the law scant consideration, but nearly all of them have been notified of their neglect.

A little child of J. R. Hays, living near Colquitt, Ga., overturned a pot of boiling water, scalding itself so severely that the skin came off its breast and limbs. The distressed parents sent to Mr. Bush, a merchant of Colquitt for a remedy, and he promptly forwarded Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The child was suffering intensely but was relieved by a single application of the Pain Balm. Another application or two made it sound and well. For sale by O. D. Stevens, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

Remarkable Success of a New Pile Cure.

People who have suffered for years or months from the pain and inconvenience of common disorder, piles, will look with skepticism upon the claims of the makers of the new discovery for cure of all forms of piles, known under the name of Pyramid Pile Cure; nevertheless the extraordinary cures performed by this remedy are such as to warrant the investigation of any sufferer. As a case in point the following letter speaks for itself.

Mr. Henry Thomas of sub-division station No. 3, Hossack Ave., Columbus, Ohio, writes as follows:

Pyramid Drug Co.:

Gentlemen—I want you to use my name if it will be of any use to you. I was so bad with the piles that I lost work on that account. Nothing did me any good. I read in Cincinnati of the many cures of piles by the Pyramid Pile Cure and went to a drug store and asked for it. The drug told me he had something else that he thought was better, but I told him that I wanted to try the Pyramid first.

The first box helped me so much that I another and then to complete the cure used two more boxes, making four in all. I am now completely cured. Have not a trace of piles and I had suffered four years with the worst form of protruding piles.

I have suffered death from piles, but I have found the Pyramid Pile Cure to be just as represented. I have recommended it to several of my friends and I am thankful to be able to write you what good the remedy has done for me. Physicians recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure because it contains no opium, cocaine, or mineral poison of any kind, and because it is so safe and pleasant to use, being painless and applied at night. The patient is cured in a surprisingly short time with no inconvenience whatever.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents per package, and if there is any constipation it is well to use the Pyramid Pills at the same time with the Pile Cure, as constipation is very often the cause of piles and the pills effectively remove the costive condition. Price of Pills is 25 cents per package.

Write to Pyramid Drug Co., Albion, Michigan, for little book on cause and cure of piles, sent by mail free.

Noted Actor Will Be Seen at the Myers Grand.

Robert Mantell supported by Charlotte Behrens and a company of romantic actors will hold the stage of the Myers Grant tonight. Mantell's plays have all been so good that like Oliver Twist we want more and admit it is a pleasure to be able to announce a new production. W. A. Tremayne is the author of the new romance, called "A Secret Warrant" and the fact that it is written to order for our popular incoercible is sufficient to know pretty well what class of drama it is. Of course, it is French and picturesque and historical and all that kind of thing. Mantell has made himself the Apollo of romance in America and he will keep it up as long as there are writers to be found able to tell the stories of French chivalry. He has given us plays of the first empire and directoire period, and now he goes further back and will tell a tale of the Bourbon days when the Duc d'Orleans was regent at the court of the Palais Royal. It was in 1720, and in these days to refuse to drink to the king or snub a royal mistress would send a gentleman to rot in the Bastille.

A word may be said of Miss Charlotte Behrens, the talented leading lady. She has assisted Mr. Mantell in his work for many years, and has acquired the perfection necessary to inspire a star in his grandest scenes. The company is under the management of W. M. Hanley, one of our oldest and most responsible impressaries.

S. B. HEDDLES RENTS PLANT

It often happens that the doctor is out of town when most needed. The two year old daughter of J. Schenck, of Caddo, Ind. Ter., was threatened with croup. He writes: "My wife insisted that I go for the doctor at once, but as he was out of town, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which relieved the child immediately." A bottle of that remedy in the house will often save the expense of a doctor's bill, besides the anxiety always occasioned by serious sickness. When it is given as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. Thousands of mothers always keep it in their homes. The 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by C. D. Stevens, pharmacist, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

K. of L. Membership Plan. Louisville, Nov. 18.—The fact has developed that, with a view of recruiting its ranks, the order of the Knights of Labor has made a radical departure in its membership system. Heretofore it has been the rule that all members should be affiliated with their local assemblies, which are in turn affiliated with the district assemblies and these latter with the general executive board. The order has adopted an individual membership plan, through which all persons not in the immediate vicinity of a local assembly are admitted to full communion by signing the declaration of principles and an application for membership and paying the usual per capita tax to the general executive board. In this way it is expected that tens of thousands of people in the country districts and sparsely settled regions who are in sympathy with the order will be enabled to affiliate with it.

Railroads May Get More Time. Washington, Nov. 18.—December 1 the interstate commerce commission will give a hearing to the railroads that have petitioned for an extension of the time in which to equip their freight cars and locomotives with automatic brakes and car-couplers under the law of 1893. The commission estimates that something less than 5 per cent of the railroads have complied fully with the provisions of the law. There seems to be little doubt that the commission will extend the time.

Agree to Temporary Truce. London, Nov. 18.—At the preliminary meeting of the representatives of the striking engineers and their employers it was agreed to hold a formal conference Wednesday, Nov. 24. Each side will have fourteen representatives. Until then a truce has been agreed upon on the basis that the employers will suspend the notices not yet carried out and post no further notices locking out men until further notice. On the other hand, the men agree not to interfere during the truce with those engineers who are employed.

Two Women Attendants Get Their Walking Papers—Dr. Post Leaves.

For some weeks past there have been rumors of trouble at the State Hospital for the Insane at Mendota and especially of a conflict between the officers in charge of the institution. Things came to a crisis last night and the result is the release of Dr. Viola French, second assistant physician, and the demanded resignation of Miss Mary Sheahan, who for eighteen years has been at the hospital, first as attendant and later in the more responsible position of supervisor.

Some weeks ago Dr. G. A. Post, formerly of this city, first assistant physician, was suspended and shortly afterward he handed in his resignation.

The conflict between the officers of the hospital and Dr. Lyman, the superintendent, is of several months' duration. Some time ago they made complaint that affairs there were not right. Members of the Board of Control spent Monday and Tuesday of this week at the hospital. Today Dr. Lyman demanded Miss Sheahan's resignation. He also summoned Dr. French and asked how much time she wanted to send in her resignation. She said she had none to offer and that she had done nothing to merit discharge. Dr. Lyman then told her that she might consider herself discharged and she left the hospital. Dr. French is a sister-in-law to Senator C. A. Youngman and was the only woman physician employed in any of the state institutions.

The New Lake Shore Limited.

It is believed that perfection in car construction has been reached in the equipment of this train. The New York sleeper, for example, is composed of ten sections and two staterooms. Two of the sections at each end of the car are separated by partitions, thereby making them almost as exclusive as staterooms. One of the staterooms in this car is upholstered in red silk tapestry with draperies, carpet, etc., to harmonize. The other stateroom is upholstered in light green tapestry, with green draperies, etc. to correspond. The staterooms have the usual annexes and accommodations. The car has also an elegantly combined smoking and washroom. It is very richly inlaid, upholstered in plain olive-green plush, and draped with rich silk draperies. One particular beautiful feature of this room, as also of the ladies' toilet room, are mirrors over the wash stand. The inlaid work is of very exquisite design, and the frame work is supported by turned columns, brass caps and bases, the columns being inlaid with running vines. The car is built entirely of mahogany, finished with inlaid work and mosaic lines. It is remarkable for its plain, natural effect, there being no mouldings, and entirely plain services are seen in all directions. The doors are of solid wood, broken with inlaid lines and mosaic work. The ceilings are dome shape, the high lights being ornamented with gold. The upholstering of the body of the car is an olive green, special pattern. The general style of decoration is known as the Coolidge inlaid design.

The Sweet, Old Song.
"O, come where my love lies dreaming,"
She hummed in accents low,
And across the strings of her instrument
She lightly drew the bow;
"O, come where my love lies dreaming—"
And out through the bedroom door
There floated upon the atmosphere
The sound of her husband's snore!
—Cleveland Leader.

Cruel Candor.
"I'm afraid," said Mr. Meekton, "that I must plead guilty to being a baseball crank."
"I don't think so," replied his wife.
"After accompanying you to one game I am prepared to say that you are not a crank on such matters. You are a raving maniac."—Washington Star.

His Unexpected Frankness.
Miss Quickstep—What part of the town are we driving through, Mr. Fible?
Fweddly—I haven't the least idea.
Miss Quickstep—I was aware of that.
Still, I thought it possible you might know what part of town we are driving through.—Chicago Tribune.

I can play on the things, but do not.

RELIEF AT LAST.

"My dear sir, you are looking better now. Has your family physician at last hit the right remedy and cured you of your painful ailment?"
"Yes; he died the other day."—Fliegende Blaetter.

Economy Is Wealth.
Arizona Woman (to tramp)—Then you didn't cross the desert?
Battered Bill—No, mum. I went around it. You don't catch me wasting my sweetness on the desert air.—Judge.

At a Distance.
Helen—Kittie claims to be a follower of the fashions.
Mattie—Well, perhaps she is; but she is a long way behind them.—Chicago News.

Auburn Haired.
She blushed to the roots of her hair. From thence it was really unnecessary, as nature had kindly supplied a blush that was permanent.—Indianapolis Journal.

Unlucky.
Tip—I understand Hodderly has joined the Thirteen club. Isn't that rather unlucky?
Snip—Yes, for the club.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Contrary Sex.
Parson Johnson—So dis little chile am a gal. Do de udder ones belong to de contrary sex?
Mrs. Jackson—Yais, pahson; dat's a gal, too.—Judge.

So Sudden.
The Wife (reading)—I see a woman was thrown from her bicycle and knocked speechless.
The Husband—Why, what a sad death!—Puck.

No Country Theaters.
City Child—Do country towns where you go have theaters?
Actress—No. Country towns never have theaters. They have only opera houses, academies of music and temples of Thespis.—N. Y. Weekly.

Merely Language.

WORK ON THE DEPOT IS NOT DELAYED

A FULL FORCE OF MEN BUSY TODAY.

Proceedings Begun Late Yesterday Afternoon Will Not Put the Building Back—Matter Comes Up Tomorrow In the Circuit Court—Street Line Laid Out

Work has been pushed all day at the Chicago and Northwestern depot. The injunction proceedings begun by Frank S. Baines have not interfered with the work at all. Surveyor Brown was surveying the street today and establishing the line.

Masons are now at work laying the foundation for the platform pillars, and the last of the old planking was removed today.

As was stated in The Gazette last night, no injunctions were served yesterday, but late yesterday afternoon Sutherland & Nolan, attorneys for Frank S. Baines, got an order from the court citing the defendants to appear tomorrow and show cause why an injunction should not be issued. Sheriff Acheson served the papers on City Clerk Ladger yesterday afternoon, and afterward on Agent C. E. Banous. A copy was not served on the mayor until this morning. The order, which is signed by Judge Bennett, directs that the defendants and each of them show cause on Friday, November 19th, at 2 o'clock, why an injunction should not be granted, restraining the defendants from stopping up, obstructing or building platforms or sheds or in any other manner, or from continuing to stop or obstruct in any manner those parts of Wall street and Marion street, in Mitchell's addition to Janesville, and for such other and further relief as the court may deem just.

Will Be No Delay.

The work of building will not be interfered with, as the railway company can give bonds and go ahead as if no legal steps had been taken. Sutherland & Nolan and Dunwiddie & Wheeler are attorneys for Mr. Baines.

Mr. Baines claims that Wall street is one of the principal streets of the city; that he is damaged because farmers cannot reach his warehouses as readily as they could before the street was closed; that the building of the platform and shed will obstruct the street at that point and prevent the plaintiff and others residing west of that point on that street to use the same in going to the business parts of the city; that not only will travel on the street be interfered with, but the property will no longer be desirable for residence and business; less accessible for the fire department to reach with the fire department apparatus and diminish the value of the property and increase the risk and danger from fire and otherwise greatly injure the property, etc.

DIRECTORS PASS RESOLUTIONS

Warm Tribute Is Paid to L. B. Reynolds' Memory

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Janesville Machine Company, the following minutes and tribute to the memory of Leonard B. Reynolds, were adopted and ordered entered on record:

The directors of the Janesville Machine Company, in meeting assembled, desire to express and make record of their sorrow for the loss of their highly esteemed associate, Leonard B. Reynolds; of their sympathy with the surviving members of his family, and of their appreciation of his character and usefulness.

For many years his life work has been in association with us, in the conduct of the business and affairs of our company; and in the later years of his life the care and burden of such management was largely borne by him. He ever performed his full duty cheerfully, conscientiously and efficiently, and to the integrity and efficiency of his management, the good repute and success of our company is largely attributable.

In his official and social relations with ourselves, as with all others with whom he came in contact, he was genial, charitable and sympathetic. These qualities greatly endeared him to ourselves and deeply impress us with a sense of the far greater loss and affliction to be borne by those of his own family and kindred. For them we can have no words adequate to console. From our Heavenly Father alone must come the blessing of peace and consolation. When, in His Providence, He calls beloved ones to a heavenly home, we can only offer our heartfelt sympathy and sorrow with the bereaved in their great loss and affliction.

MR. TAALERT'S HEAD PINCHED

The C. & N. W. Machinist Had a Close Call at the Round House.

It is all owing to a streak of good luck that M. W. Taalert of 105 Jefferson street, is alive and well today. Mr. Taalert is employed at the local round house of the Chicago & Northwestern railway company. Last evening at 5:30 o'clock, while assisting in putting a spring into an engine that had been "jacked up," Mr. Taalert was obliged to put his head between the engine and steam chest. As he did so, the engine settled about two inches, catching the unfortunate man's head between the cylinder and the engine. Dr. W. H. Palmer who was called, found the man's injuries consisted only of cuts and bruises, and the accident was regarded as a most fortunate one.

DUDLEY IS GUILTY OF WIFE BEATING

TOWN OF JANESVILLE FAMILY
JAR IS AIRED.

Defendant Convicted of Assaulting His Wife and Will Either Pay $23.13 or Remain in Jail For the Next Twenty Days—Divorce Case Comes Next.

Frank Dudley, of the town of Janesville, was found guilty this morning in the municipal court of assault and battery his wife being the complaining witness and the court imposed a fine of $5 and costs or a total of $23.13—or twenty days in jail.

At 10 o'clock this morning the case opened and judging from the tone of the testimony there has been some hot times at the Dudley homestead in the peaceful town of Janesville. The assault was committed Sept. 24, 1890 at 1 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Dudley—dressed in a neat fitting suit of black—took the stand this morning and told about the trouble. She said that her husband coming home at hour of the morning requested her to get out of bed and prepare him a good warm meal. She further alleged that he took her by the throat and choked and manused her throwing her to the floor with violent force.

Mr. Dudley's Side.

Mr. Dudley, the defendant, then took the stand and talked freely, in fact too freely to suit his attorney, O. C. Russell, who had to repeatedly tell him to keep quiet. He told the court that he thought his wife was "wrong in her head" and that she at times was subject to fits. On the night of their trouble he says he grappled with his better half only after she had fastened her finger nails deep in his eyes. He also said she then jumped out of her bed room window into the yard only to reappear again with a stick of cord wood in her hand.

Mrs. Dudley, the aged mother of the defendant, then took the stand and gave testimony as an eye witness to the fracas. At the conclusion of the testimony the court found the defendant guilty of assault.

J. J. Cunningham appeared for the plaintiff while Winans & Russell represented the defendant.

The divorce action will be the next chapter in the story.

MAN'S INHUMANITY

Worse Than Cuffs and Blows is the Harm done the Stomach.

It is unfortunate for mankind that there are men who, for the gain of money, will adulterate food intended for the human stomach. Savage blows are given to the health by harmful articles placed in food to cheapen, or add taste or color.

It is enough to rouse ones ire to think that we are about to suffer temporary disease brought about by adulterations in food, that was purchased for pure. All "grain," "wheat" or "cereal coffees" thus far tested have a distinct coffee taste, are concoctions made up of part low grade coffee or coffee essence and sold to people for "pure cereal coffee."

The original Postum Cereal Food Coffee is believed to be the only pure article of the kind that is palatable. The pleasant flavor of the milder grades of Java is obtained by the process of manufacture discovered by its inventor after many months of experiment.

Counterfeits arose who found it impossible to produce a cereal coffee with the taste of Postum and therefore have universally resorted to a mixture of low grade coffee to produce it.

True, thousands of people put one half to two thirds Postum in their coffee when unwilling to part with the narcotic effect of coffee; (this we cannot prevent) but they know what they are mixing, which is quite a different affair than to use a cereal coffee you expect to be pure and find that the dishonest maker has put in a portion of the very article the user of cereal coffee seeks to avoid.

The great physicians, food experts, athletic trainers, lawyers, editors and brain workers in general are in large numbers using Postum Cereal Coffee, for the benefit derived in nourishment and health. A ten days' trial will begin the work of renewal of health, and if properly prepared so that it comes to table black, rich and delicious, it will never be abandoned.

PASS ON PETITION NEXT SATURDAY

EDGERTON BANK DEPOSITORS ARE IN COURT.

Ask That George G. Sutherland Or Some Other Suitable Person Be Made Receiver In Place of L. H. Towne—Matter Is Held Open—Petition Has 225 Signers.

In the interest of two hundred and twenty-five depositors whose savings in the defunct Edgerton bank amounted to about $170,000, Attorneys Smith & Pierce petitioned the circuit court of Rock county this morning for the removal of L. H. Towne, the present receiver of the bank, and to appoint George G. Sutherland, or some other suitable person, to fill the place.

The matter will be argued Saturday at 10 o'clock.

The application was made this morning on the grounds that the present receiver, L. H. Towne, is the son of the present president of the bank, and that they would therefore prefer some one else. The receiver, they claim, should be a man without interest in the matter.

It is said that several men will be recommended for the position.

A FEMINE IMPULSE.

The small number of people aware of the existence of Miss Dorothy Maxwell were divided into two sections. There were those who considered her life most enviable; there were others who deemed it highly reprehensible. But as Dorothy herself was ignorant alike of envy or condemnation she continued to live in the charming and admirably appointed Georgian house in Kensington, and in a pleasant environment created by lavish but intelligent expenditure on the part of the Marquis of Bewdalon. For some years she had been mistress of Belper Lodge, yet her life was extremely dull. Lord Bewdalon was a busy man both socially and politically, and a close friend of his father, the aged Duke of Strathwayte—a circumstance so singular that it was a constant source of comment among his contemporaries. Consequently, at first he was frequently away from London for weeks together, either filling political or social engagements, or staying with his father, who never left the country, and as Dorothy had no friends and no companions save the faded widow of a military officer whom Bewdalon had engaged as her chaperon to accompany her to the play when he was otherwise engaged, the comfort and pleasure of her life were marred by its loneliness.

Dorothy had an overwhelming respect for Lord Bewdalon, but she did not love him, and this in the earlier days of her conquest had given her sin a blacker tinge in her own eyes. A native cleverness, added to acute feminine perception, had shown her that Bewdalon had none of the characteristics of the average man who enters lightly upon irregular unions. Morally, perhaps, he was neither better nor worse; mentally he was incomparably superior. Mere beauty and platitudes wearied him, and when Dorothy discovered the gulf that lay between their intelligences she set herself diligently to bridge it over. Bewdalon's devotion to politics—a devotion he had inherited from a long line of ancestors—gave Dorothy her opportunity, and during his many absences a string of masters occupied her days, hard study her solitary evenings. One day, by the merest chance, Bewdalon stumbled upon a pile of books dealing with abstruse questions, with history, philosophy and political economy, their margins covered with notes in Dorothy's neat handwriting—a handwriting that bore evidence of the class from which she had sprung.

"How this woman loves me!" he said to himself, his eyes growing dim as he turned over volume after volume. At that moment Dorothy entered the room, and, seeing the books strewn around him, hesitated. "I have never penetrated into your sanctum before," he said, pointing to the many evidences of her plodding. "I sincerely wish I had. Have you been wading through all these books to please me?"

Dorothy faltered. His immediate conclusion that she had been educating herself for his sole benefit filled her with a vague irritation.

"I—I wished to understand you better," she stammered.

"You have succeeded in making me understand you," he answered, kissing her reverently.

From that day they insensibly drifted into a close friendship, and often as Dorothy sat by Bewdalon, steadily helping him with his many researches, and filled with admiration for his marvelous sympathy and broad outlook upon life, she would cry bitterly to herself: "Why cannot I love this man? Why cannot I love him?" And so the days passed, the woman endeavoring to stifle the impulses of her heart by severe study, the man glorying in her beauty and her intelligence, until the Duke of Strathwayte fell dangerously ill.

"This illness may last for months," said Bewdalon, as he was leaving Belper Lodge, "and I cannot be away from him. Go abroad, Dorothy, with Mrs. Vane."

"How could I help you then?" she asked, a terror of strange places and peoples suddenly taking possession of her. "There is much I can do for you if I stay here."

"But it will do you good. You need a change," he protested.

"We will compromise," she said, smiling. "I will go to Brighton!"

"And be thoroughly idle," he concluded, patting her cheek. "You have been working too hard."

At the end of a fortnight Dorothy returned, hurrying the meek Mrs. Vane protesting from the delights of the hotel, the victim of a restlessness that left her no peace. Soon after her return to Belper Lodge she was one afternoon idly scanning the pages of a magazine, when her eye fell upon an illustration of the interior of a large draper's shop. She rose abruptly, filled with a sudden desire for her old life—to smell the aerial scent of new calico, to see the long line of flaring lights over each counter, to hear the ripping of cloth, the conversation of the tired shopgirls. Memories of her girlhood surged through her brain as she leaned against the mantelpiece, and an incurable longing to see the great drapery establishment where she had worked took possession of her. She picked up the magazine, and then, with a muffled cry, threw it down and ran to her bedroom. The tea gown of diaphanous lace and silk was torn off, and a few moments later Dorothy slipped out of the house, a sad colored cloak and a thick veil shrouding her figure and face. Hailing a hansom, she was passing through the glitter of Piccadilly on her way to the Tottenham Court road before she realized that she had succumbed to a temptation she had successfully combated for months.

Dismissing the cab some distance below Messrs. Yardsticks' mammoth premises, she walked slowly past the plate glass windows, filled with the cheapest trifles that ever the British working man and his wife were deluded into buying. Dorothy could have told the small crowd of wondering women gathered round the windows, commenting on the cheapness of various "bargains," many secrets had she been so minded, but her eyes were fixed on a large mirror, in which she could see the reflection of the assistants serving behind the counter. She was now at the mercy of her emotions, and entering the shop took her place among a row of women who were waiting to be served by a pale, tired looking girl whose face was lined by overwork, late hours and bad food. Dorothy watched her swift sissors as they ran through the rolls of calico and the rapid movement of her hands with fascinated curiosity. She felt that she was watching herself—thirty years before. So engrossed was she that the familiar "What can I do for you, miss?" found her with nothing to say. She looked round helplessly, and then gave a trifling order. With the girl was doing up the parcel she leaned forward, whispering:

"Have you forgotten me, Lizzie? I'm Dorothy Maxwell."

The parcel dropped from the girl's hands.

"I can't see through your veil," she said. "We thought you were dead."

Dorothy glanced hastily round the shop, where under the flaring gaslights she recognized many faces. She raised her hand to her veil, then hesitated.

"Where is John?" she asked.

"John is married," the girl said sullenly, "and has set up in business for himself."

Dorothy clutched at the counter, and for a moment the oppressive smell, the garish lights and the sound of coarse voices seemed to be one whirling mass that blinded her.

"He waited a long time," the girl went on in a vindictive undertone, "but he got tired and married last year. He used to say some nasty things about you, I can tell you, for going off as you did, with never a word, and you engaged to him too. What are you doing now?" she added, raising her voice. "Still stopping some girl or other from marrying the man she likes, as you stopped me from marrying John?" Dorothy shook her head helplessly, and, throwing some coins down upon the counter, walked out of the shop.

Instinctively she turned toward the park, her mind filled with memories of the past, with its hard and ceaseless work, its privations and simple pleasures, and with the part John Gregory had played in that past. So her tender, helpful lover was married, she thought, as she crouched on a seat under the dripping trees—married, and she was forgotten. And she had come to tell him that she had wearied of the luxury of the last four years, that she needed him to be happy, and that if he would forgive and forget the wrong she had done him she would marry him, as she had promised him in the old days.

John was married. She smiled bitterly to herself as she thought of her wild desire, as she drove to the Tottenham Court road to tell him everything—of the accident in Oxford street that had first brought her under Lord Bewdalon's notice, of his constant kindness during her following illness, of the temptation to which she yielded because she was always tired and often hungry, and of the four years at Belper Lodge—and now there was no need. Stunned and dizzy she rose to her feet, clearly seeing that she had no one now upon whom to rely to protect her from herself. Her castle of cards had fallen to the ground, the man upon whom she had leaned—perhaps foolishly—to redeem the past had forgotten her, and the agony of her disappointment was supreme.

But the habits of four years are not to be shaken off in an hour, and the striking of the neighboring clocks reminded Dorothy that she must return to dinner, but as her cab bore her through the slippery streets the whirling wheels seemed to repeat, "As the tree falls so it shall lie." Dorothy shuddered, but still the words rang remorselessly through her brain, following her up the broad staircase at Belper Lodge and into the quiet of her own room.

Then she faced the situation. She was at least necessary to Lord Bewdalon, and he, to whom she owed so much, should not find her wanting. He loved her, and John had forgotten. Perhaps she deserved that he should forget. But when she was dressing for dinner the pathos of the situation came to her suddenly. "I shall be sentimental for once," she thought. "Tonight I shall wear mourning for my dead love; to-morrow I shall forget."

The bright eyed French maid could not understand madam's inexplicable desire to wear the only black gown she possessed that night. A bright dress, the pink and white, would drive away madam's migraine, but Dorothy silenced her objections, and in silent protest the woman clothed her in the somber garb she had chosen.

Dorothy had reached the first landing on her way to the drawing room when she heard the hall door open and a "Yes, my lord," from the footman in reply to an eager question. The next moment Lord Bewdalon was beside her.

"Ah, you have seen the papers," he said, touching her dress. "I was too worried to telegraph. How thoughtful, how good of you, Dorothy," he went on sadly. "You have worn this tonight because you knew how much I loved him." And his eyes filled with tears.

"Your father?" she stammered.

"He died last night. He would have loved you as much as I do had he known you, Dorothy. I shall never forget your sympathy." Again he touched the black dress, then kissed her as he had never kissed her before.

One morning, a fortnight later, Lord Bewdalon, now Duke of Strathwayte, drove to Belper Lodge, leaving shortly afterward with Dorothy. When they returned, the servants addressed her as "your grace."

New Materials—Blouse Effects For the Robust, Etc.

Shirred velvet in the piece is a novelty of this season. It is to be had in all colors and is very thick and heavy. It is employed for millinery trimming, for sleeves to plain velvet bodices and even for entire blouses when the intended wearer is very slender.

If a robust woman desires to adopt the blouse effect, which is more especially suited to slight figures, she will do well to suppress all fullness at the back and sides and allow only the front to be baggy. This prevents clumsiness of appearance.

Among new materials those having vertical ribs, black on a colored ground, are noticeable. There are also broches with horizontal ribs and with Louis Quinze designs. There is a great variety of black designs on a colored ground, these being found in the greatest elegance among the silk and wool mixtures, which are novel and costly and compose some very elegant toilets.

A novelty in dress goods is a flannel-like material in checks of black and a color, with white threads running through the black. This is used for traveling gowns and children's dresses.

The chief among new fancy dress goods is that having wide, black, horizontal stripes on a colored ground. This is often combined with plain velvet and makes very effective costumes.

The sketch shows a costume of fawn colored cloth. The skirt opens at the left side of the bodice over a panel of caracul, each side of the opening being decorated with a fine braided design in black. Motifs of passementerie connected by cords complete the ornamentation. The blouse bodice is open at the side over a band of caracul and is trimmed like the skirt. The close sleeves have full caps bordered with caracul, and the wrists and collar are also edged with caracul. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION NOTES.

Hats For Walking or Bicycling—Blouses and Other Jackets.

Small felt hats of a masculine style will be much worn this winter. They have a brim lifted at the sides, while the crown is depressed in the middle. Although small, they are a trifle larger than those seen last year. These hats are used only during morning walks, traveling or bicycling. They appropriately accompany a plain cloth street gown.

Feather boas are still enjoying high favor. Black, white, gray, beige and mixed black and white are in the great majority, brighter colored ones being seldom seen.

Jackets are somewhat longer this year than they were last, but the basques are flat, without ripples. Blouse jackets are both plain and elaborate, short pile fur being much employed for them. Caracul is greatly worn, and a blouse of this fur, belted in by a black grosgrain girdle, embroidered with black and steel, has an excellent effect. Blouses of heavy cloth are often completely covered with braiding in black, color or metal combined with color or black. Collar, pelerine, revers and cuffs of fur are usually put on these blouses.

The illustration given today shows a costume of Russian green silk. The skirt is closed at the left side under ornate ornaments of jet, the edge of the bodice being finished by a plaiting of black satin. The bodice has a tight back and a blouse front. Down the middle of the latter is a wide, flat plait of Russian green velvet, trimmed with jet ornaments, this plait forming a corset at the waist. Bretelles composed of three plaitings of black satin extend over back and front. The sleeves of silk are decorated with jet, and the toque of green velvet is trimmed with black plumes. OLD PAPERS AND LETTERS.

A Collection of Great Interest in the Possession of Mrs. M. J. Gage.

Mrs. Matilda Joslyn Gage is the possessor of an interesting collection of old papers and letters which she is now engaged in arranging for reference and safe keeping. Of especial value are her files of old newspapers, going back to the days when her public services began. Among these may be found the New York Semi-weekly Tribune for the full time of the civil war and through reconstruction days and files of Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly. Particular interest attaches to a bundle of The New Century, published during the exposition of 1876 in Philadelphia by the woman's centennial committee, because of the association with it of Mrs. Gillespie, a granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin.

There are several complete copies of The National Citizen and Ballot Box, a publication started in 1876 at Toledo under the auspices of that city's Woman Suffrage association. Then there are packages of Italian, French and English papers and pamphlets, all bearing on the question of woman suffrage and helping to make an aggregation of reference documents wonderful to contemplate and cumbersome to handle.

Another suffrage treasure is a centennial autograph book, containing the names of those allied with the movement at its beginning.

Among the relics of her mother's family (the Leslies of Scotland) Mrs. Gage cherishes an old piano, made before pianos were manufactured in America. One of the Astors settled in London and manufactured these instruments, and on the plate on the front is inscribed "G. Aster, No. 79 Cornhill, London, New Patent."

Mrs. Gage 45 years ago made her first public speech for woman's rights in a convention held in Syracuse, in the old city hall. She was one of the pioneers in this movement and worked long and persistently against obstacles, disappointments and odium to, as she declared, "break the way for the women of today." Her books on woman's rights are "Woman, Church and State," "Woman as Inventor," "Who Planned the Tennessee Campaign?" and "Woman's Rights Catechism."—New York Tribune.

Protection Against Colds.

While every one admits the necessity that exists for guarding against exposure, especially when there are sudden changes from heat to cold, there are very few persons who take these imperative precautions in the proper way. They are chilly when the weather changes and immediately seek out an overcoat, a jacket, a scarf or a muffler. The shoulder cape comes into use and the feather boa or wrap that is pulled up close about the neck and covers the chest. This is precisely the region that needs the least protection in these changes. If, instead of this, thicker shoes and warmer hose were put on and a warmer covering for the limbs were afforded, the trunk of the body could take much better care of itself. Cold and exposed extremities and too much wrapping around the body create congestion and pave the way for disease. The hygienic and sensible method is to give the throat, chest and arms a dash of cold salt and water every morning upon rising. An entire sponge bath of this sort is of great advantage, but this treatment of the throat and chest is almost absolutely necessary if one would avoid a multitude of ills that affect this portion of the system.—New York Ledger.

Winter Styles.

The styles for the coming winter are charming, says a New York fashion writer. Not in years have they been more attractive, smart, elegant or satisfying. The lines of the gown are normal, but little or no exaggerations; the street skirts clear the ground all around; the newest house dresses have a becoming and graceful demitrain, and the materials and garnitures are rich, wonderfully varied, moderate in price and nearly all beautiful to the eye and the touch. The modified sleeves and the reduced outline of the wide spreading skirts are at once becoming to the tall or short, the stout or slender. There was neither grace nor beauty nor fine art in these styles when grossly exaggerated in their contour, and it is surprising how quickly we can become accustomed to new phases of la mode, transferring our preferences to a radical change in designs as they are variously created and brought up for favor.

One of Alabama's Women.

Mrs. Lelia Seton Wilder is one of the leading women in the state of Alabama. She is the owner and manager of Wilder Place, on the Tennessee river, near Decatur. Wilder Place is one of the finest plantations in the south, containing, as it does, 1,600 acres of rich land, a part of which is under cultivation. The remainder is heavily timbered. Mrs. Wilder is a widow and a heavy taxpayer. She manages the entire plantation and employs over 100 negro laborers, who raise abundant cotton crops.

A Little More Cost Brings Big Profits.

The addressing, folding, inclosing, sealing and stamping of five thousand circulars, with postage, will cost at least $65, whether the circular is good or bad. Notwithstanding this fixed charge, some strive to save a dollar or two on the cost of printing, although the goods advertised are to be judged by the character of the printing, just as a house is judged by the character of its salesmen. Good printing costs but little more, and that "little more" brings greater returns than any other part of the cost. Order your printing where good work is assured.
